As the sun rises each day, so do goals arise in our minds. We originate ideas of what it is we wish to accomplish. We anticipate the outcome and strive to achieve it, whether it be participation in athletics, entrance into a club, or popularity: all satisfactions for ourselves. These create the horizons in our minds.

Many consider high school a beginning and an ending situation. They are wrong. It is a situation filled with constant beginnings— of friendships, loves, successes, and possible failures. Throughout these years, our minds are filled with expectations. Graduation is not the end. It is the beginning of one of the many chapters in our lives.

Danny, (Hey!)

Ending the festivities of Homecoming Week was a spectacular half-time show that concluded with the crowning of Christine Navarro as 1976-77 Homecoming Queen. But the nominees saw little glamour on previous days as they were kidnapped, brought to school in Tarzan outfits and took part in an assembly. The school also saw the traditional decorating of Buckingham Square for class competition in which the seniors and sophomores both tied for first place.

Medulla provided the music, but it was Mrs. Victor and the sophomore class who made the whole evening possible.

Thorton Wilder's "The Matchmaker" presents a most interesting plot. Mr. Vandergelder, a very wealthy man of Yonkers, NY, plans to marry hat-maker Irene Molloy through Mrs. Levi's matching—until Dolly decides that she wants Vandergelder for herself! Dolly manages somehow to match Irene with Cornelius Hackl, so Vandergelder won't marry Irene. After many complications Dolly Levi finally succeeds in winning Horace Vandergelder over.

Everyone at W.H.S. Demonstrated Lion Pride

The HBUHSD made us an offer we couldn't refuse. A cash award of $5000 would be presented at the end of the year to the cleanest campus in the district. WHS was the recipient of the first place, first quarter trophy-thanks to the fine efforts made by our student body. Many WHS clubs and organizations spent a multitude of hours beautifying our campus. One of the major projects was the wall paintings done by MECHA (Below).

Band and Drill Team Exhibited Precision and

Football Players Demonstrated Fine Athletic Ability

The Lions experienced a very impressive football season this year, going as far as C.I.F. semi-finals. The offensive and defensive teams, under the direction of the WHS coaches, were outstanding. Westminster rallied to a 5-3-1 record for the season.

PAGE 32 1)Several football players decided to dress up to add some spice to the rally. 2)Offensive back Doug Boswell reaches over the line for a Lion 1st down. 3)Full of spirit, the pepsters display one of their VICTORY posters.

STUDENT LIFE

Campus life at WHS is as diversified as life in the world itself. The school year is a melange of activities, starting with football games, sock hops, formals, and weekly pep rallies held either in the stadium, gym, or Buckingham Square. ASB tries to provide as many opportunities as possible for all students to participate in activities, and it encourages students to display Lion spirit.

"Mistletoe Magic" Christmas Theme

"Mistletoe Magic" was the delightful theme of the 1976 Christmas Formal. During the Christmas season, the holiday spirit was captured perfectly by this event.

The dance was held at Lion Country Safari on December 4. Couples moved to the inviting music of the band, Giant City, as they were surrounded by the festive atmosphere of the affair. Decorations supplied by co-sponsors, the Senior Class and House of Lords greatly added to this effect.

Although the dance was called "formal," tuxes were not required. In fact, suits were preferred.

During the evening, couples had access to all rides at the park. When the band took breaks a mime performed in an adjoining room.

The exciting highlight of the dance was the crowning of the Christmas King. Doug Boswell was chosen as the 1976 Christmas King.

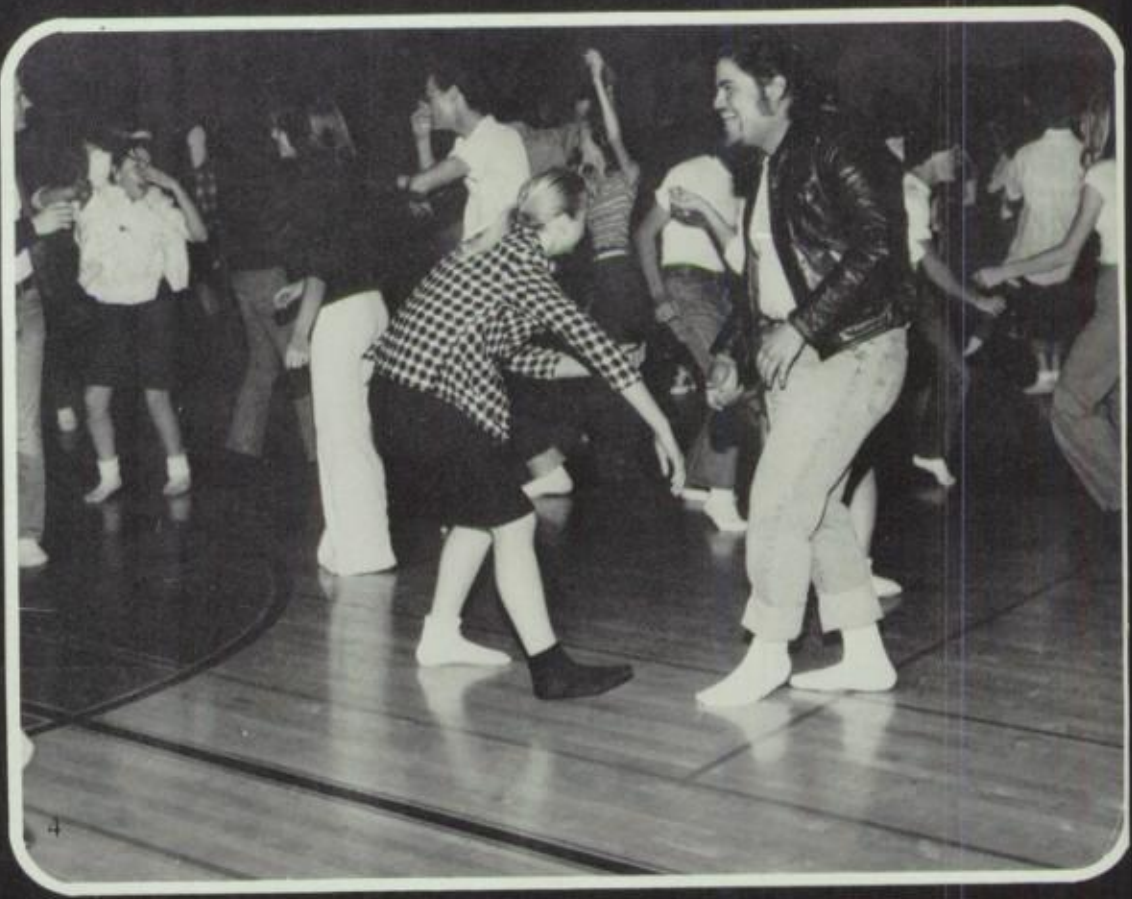
Fifties Captured at WHS

During the Fabulous 50's Week students had the opportunity to get involved in everything from paddleball and jacks contests to dressing up for the big Friday dance. This year a Fonzie and Pinkie were chosen and the winners were announced at the dance. Junior Dave Pople and Sophomore Tisha Huntley received the honor of being the "coolest" guy and girl on campus. The 50's band for the dance was none other than Mag-Wheels and Lugnuts whose music was as authentic as the group looked.



1)Just about everyone managed to get into the 50's mood as the bunny hop began parading around the gym. 2)Activities Director Barbara Atwood takes time out from her busy schedule to practice her paddleball skills. 3)Brian Snyder begins the Root Beer Chug-a-Lug event and contestants start pouring it down! 4) Richard Gonzales and partner dance to the 50's music of Mag Wheels and Lugnuts.

Valentine Dance Brought Couples Together

Girls' League's Valentine Dance entitled "Hearts in Harmony" was held at the Costa Mesa Country Club. In order to make the dance really special, Cupid Couples were chosen. Janet Murry and Mike Sodders received the honor of being Senior Couple while Mandy Newhouse and Larry Parker were Underclassmen Couple. Flax provided the music.

Foxy Frolics Groups Portrayed

Foxy Frolics used to be an all-girl show until the Title IX Act came into effect. This year males were allowed to participate in the festivities. The theme was 'Cartoon Cut-Ups' and the groups chose their music, costumes, and routines accordingly. The finale was a routine performed by the advisors of each of the groups. Continuity introduces the groups before they perform. 1st, 2nd and 3rd place went to Donalds Quacks, The Fat Alberts and The Archies.

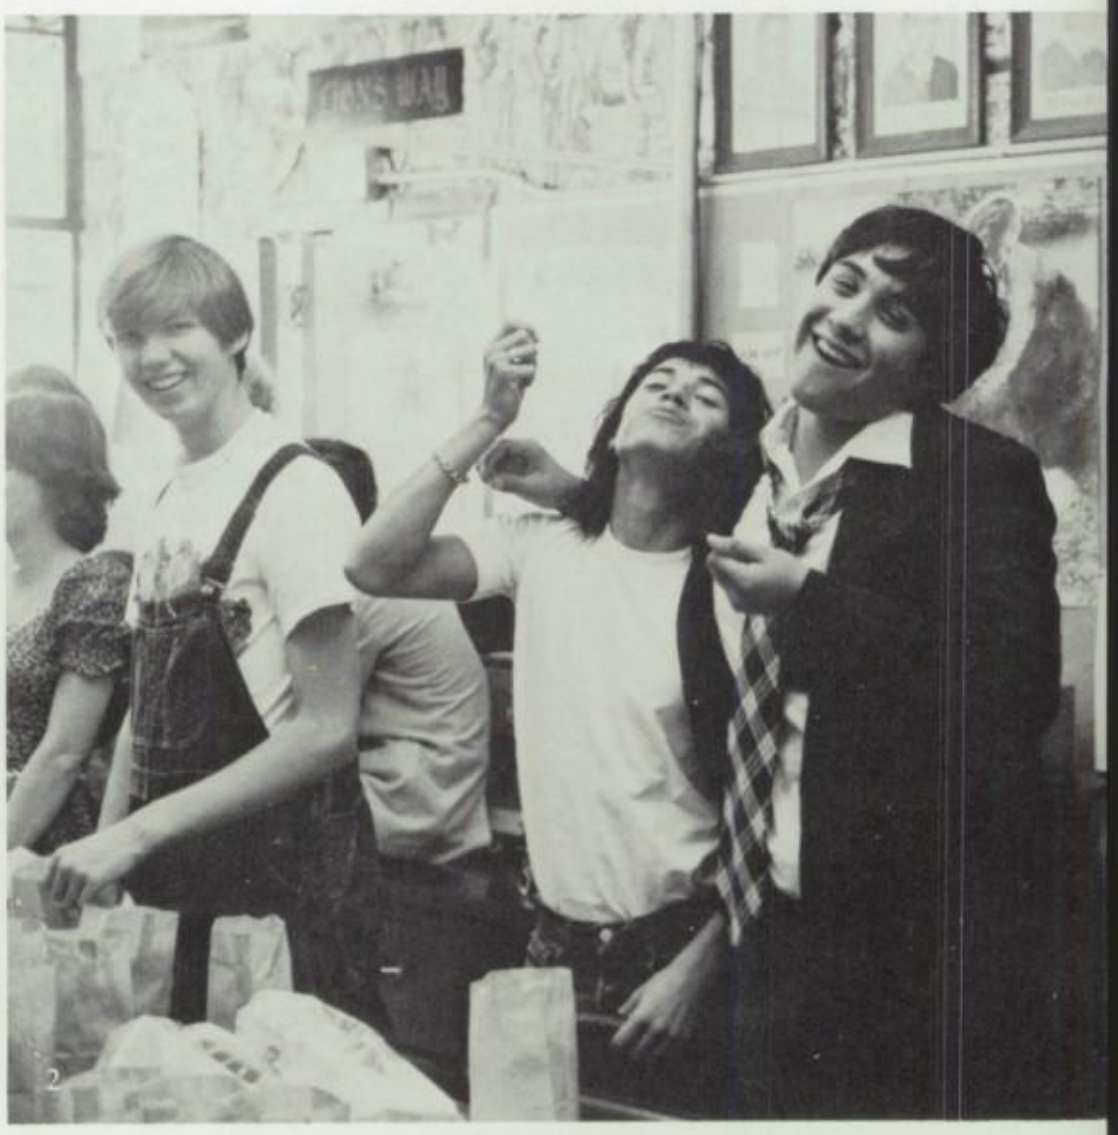
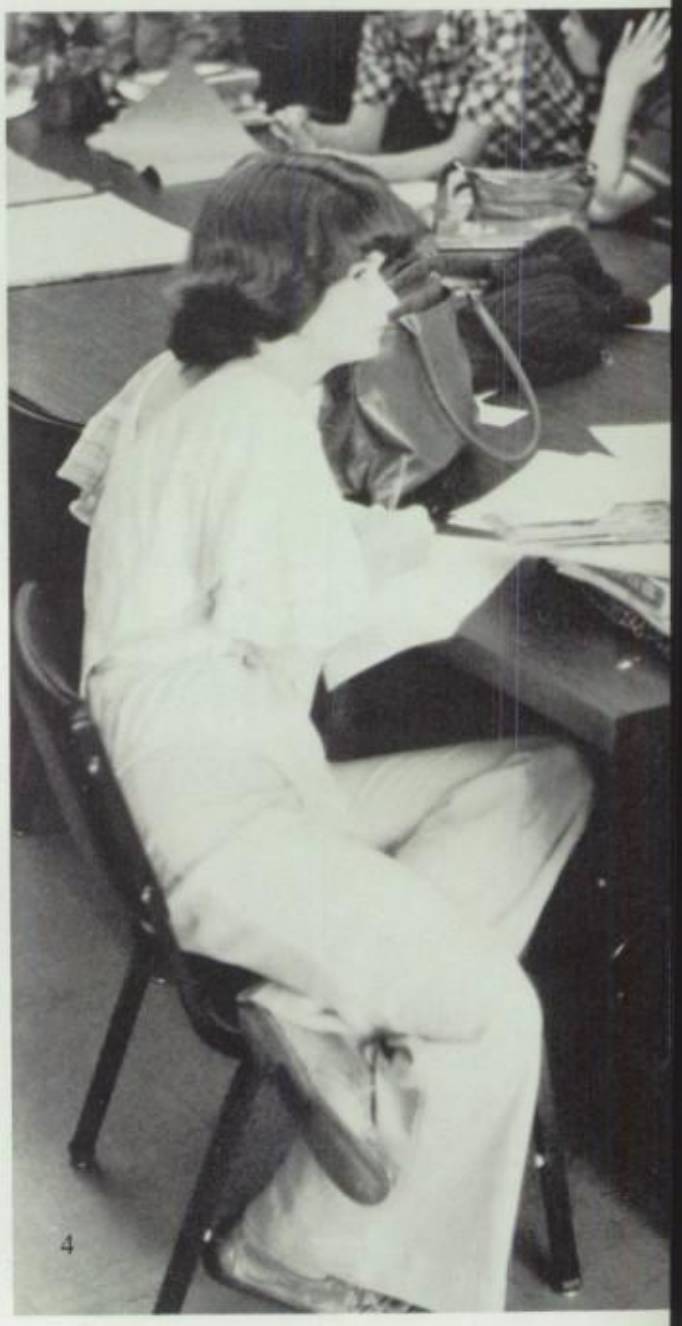
House of Lords Switches to New English Titles





Representing the ideas and hopes of the entire student body is the annually elected House of Lords. Following the passing of a law at the end of last year, this year's officers were the first to have the new English titles of office. The Prime Minister (President) was Dale Freer and the House of Lords was guided by Activities Director Miss Barbara Atwood. One of the largest campaigns during this year by the House of Lords was the clean campus effort. This was inspired by $5,000 first prize offered by HBUHSD for the year's cleanest campus. Westminster High School was one of the top scoring schools in the contest. House of Lords was also in charge of the school's pep rallies and the Homecoming show, one of the best in the school's history. Pep rallies were also superior to years past. Another challenge for the House of Lords was the annual Christmas Formal, on which the Senior Class assisted. It was held at Lion Country Safari on an outside dance floor; rides at the park were also open to the couples. Throughout the school year House of Lords continued to strive for a better school, one composed of many separate groups willing to work together as a unit.

Educational Program at WHS

Enhanced by Special Services

One of the greatest facets of the educational program at WHS is the great number of special services available on campus. Four such special services are Radio/TV, Graphic Arts, the Media Production Lab, and the Public Relations Workshop.

The basic function of the Radio/TV Department is to video tape productions for a teacher, a class, or even a club which may desire to record a special program. Also serving the school is the Graphic Arts Department, which prints school handbooks, tickets, and flyers.

The Media Production Lab is responsible for a variety of audio and video projects that are used by the teaching staff to enhance the classroom learning experience. Another on-campus facility is the Public Relations Workshop. The PR Workshop is a journalism-oriented service composed of a news bureau and special projects committees.

Publications Staff Produces Top Ranked Newspapers

Through the past years, Westminster High School has produced one of the top newspapers in the state. The news magazine HARVEST is also top in its field. Under the guidance of Mrs. Sherilyn Marston, advisor, and editor-in-chief Vivian Allard, the past year was again reported by top quality work.

The newspaper staff for this year was one of the largest ever. Stocked well with experienced page editors and staff writers, production was smooth and simple, for a newspaper that is. The page editors were responsible for creative layouts, leadership, guidance of new writers, proofreading, and rewriting. Each staff writer covered special stories and beat assignments.

The SCROLL, an 8-page newspaper, and the HARVEST, a 24-page news magazine, were both produced throughout the year. The newspaper was released every three weeks; the news-magazine was produced four times a year, usually on or around vacations.

Motivators Created Enthusiasm Wherever They Went

Creating the single most motivating force on the WHS campus are the pepsters, band, and marching drill team. All of these groups help to promote enthusiasm wherever they go.

Pepsters are in charge of leading cheers and encouraging spirit at all pep rallies and sports activities. They are composed of Yell, Flag, and Song Girls, all working together to build school support.

But, aside from raising spirit, the pepsters attempt to recognize the athletes by painting posters and giving gifts to them. They even paper players' houses in the wee hours of the night.

Performing spirited songs and the Alma Mater at rallies and sporting events is a part of the band's efforts to liven the crowds. Along with this, the band members perform entertaining halftime shows and competition events. Mr. Ken Woesner and Mr. John Lewis work hard to create one of the finest bands around.

Pageantry Corps works with the band to present formations at halftime and competition shows. Using flags, the Pageantry Corps creates beauty in motion during their performances.

Working closely with the band is the WHS Drill Team. The Drill Team performs with the band at halftime and competition shows. The Lion Drill Team is the largest organization on campus and certainly one of the best.

The four organizations—Pepsters, the Marching Band, Pageantry Corps, and Drill Team succeeded in increasing the spirit and enthusiasm of Lion students, parents, and community.

Boys' Varsity Club Serves the School Through the Combined Efforts of the Athletes

Made up of the athletes which excell in sports, the Boys' Varsity Club's main purpose is to serve the school. The Boys' Varsity Club is inactive every year until the end of November, due to football season which requires a tremendous amount of time from both the club's advisor, Coach Boswell, and many of the members. The only requirement for membership in Boys' Varsity Club is that the student must be on at least one of the varsity teams at WHS. The club's major project during the year was a basketball tournament which they sponsored in December.

Newly formed this year, the Girls' Varsity Club gives girls on varsity teams a chance to work together with students involved in various sports. With the help of Ms. Baie and club president Rachel Sanders, Girls' Varsity has developed into a strong club. Pep Club Helped Support School Activities Through Its Efforts

Promoting school spirit and boasting one of the largest club memberships is Pep Club. The club's main purpose is to coordinate a card section for WHS' sports activities, and to create an air of enthusiasm for all. Previous attempts at gathering enough interested students for such a club had failed, but under the guidance of Miss Atwood, and club president Gayle Goldstein, Pep club roared successfully through its second year of existence.WHS is one of the few high schools to have an active card section thanks to Pep Club and the members who take the time to make it possible.

Board and Superintendent Strive to Meet Students' Future Needs

The Board of Trustees of the HBUHSD and Superintendent, Dr. F.J. Abbott, directed increased attention during the past year to ensure that the student's high school experience is truly preparatory for functioning as a rational, coping human being and for meeting the challenges of the future. Throughout the school district the upper level remedial reading program was continued, and a writing program was implemented to improve the student's ability to communicate precisely. Competency committees were established to determine the goals and objectives which the student will be expected to accomplish in each respective discipline in order to graduate. Focusing on the schools' responsibilities to the community, the Board acted to assure that minimum standards would be met by all students without imposing a ceiling on possibilities for individual achievement.

1) Superintendent Abbott addresses an assembly of student newspaper and yearbook reporters to explain the district's plans for the school year. 2) The Board of Trustees discusses the development of competency requirements for graduation.

Principal Sees School Achieve Year's Goals

The year was a successful one for WHS and for Thomas E. Kolanoski, principal. WHS paid particular attention to "cleaning up its image." Buildings were repainted, the student cafeteria redecorated, and the parking lot resurfaced. Within the educational program, emphasis was placed on assuring WHS graduates a minimum level of competency in their areas of study. Established skills programs were strengthened and new ones developed—all with the intention of making a high school diploma the promise of a stated achievement level. When the school won the district's Clean Campus trophy and when teachers participated in setting requirements, WHS realized some of its most important goals for the year.

1)Principal Thomas E. Kolanoski speaks to a Citadel staff member about school goals. 2)Lion pride is evident as Mr. Kolanoski congratulates the student body for winning the District's Clean Campus trophy. 3)Members of a ninth grade Introduction to Social Studies class have an opportunity to question their principal, who enjoys visiting classes whenever possible. 4)Back in his office, Mr. Kolanoski attends to the routine responsibilities of his job.

Varied responsibilities keep the assistant principals of WHS constantly occupied. These administrators keep the school functioning as it should while aiding Mr. Kolanoski in all developmental areas of education. They also respond to student and community needs.

At WHS the five assistant principals are assigned specific jobs which include student and community services, pupil personnel services, coordination of specially funded programs and business and educational services.

The personable WHS staff of assistant principals helps make campus life more comfortable via all of these services. Although their heavy workload keeps the assistant principals busy in their special areas, they are always pleased to help out any inquisitive student.

STUDIES

There is one thing that each student at WHS faces everyday and that each student has in common with all others: studies. Every student must meet a set of requirements in order to graduate. These include English, mathematics, social sciences, and natural sciences. The learning experiences shared between teachers and students are probably some of the most valuable moments of our lives, and probably some of the most satisfying for our educators.

Students' Futures Arranged From Start at WHS

Upon entering WHS, students are faced with the question of "What classes should I take?" Where do they go for answers, guidance, advice, or just suggestions? A good majority go straight to their counselors. The WHS counseling staff, which consists of ten counselors, offers a great deal of help to students who are making these decisions. The biggest goal for the underclass counselors is to help students set up a four year course of study that will help the student the most, as well as keep the student interested and comfortable in school. Seniors, who are very inquisitive about college and about what the future has to offer, count on their counselors- Mr. Fillmore and Mrs. Crutcher- for proper guidance.

The Guidance Center, supervised by Mrs. Harris, is perhaps the greatest aid to all students interested in their futures, especially seniors. Available in the center, are numerous college and university catalogues, Vital Information for Education and Work projectors, and the Computerized Vocational Information System program. The Job Placement Center offers aid to students in obtaining jobs in the communities; it also provides the Coastline Regional Occupational Program classes for interested students.

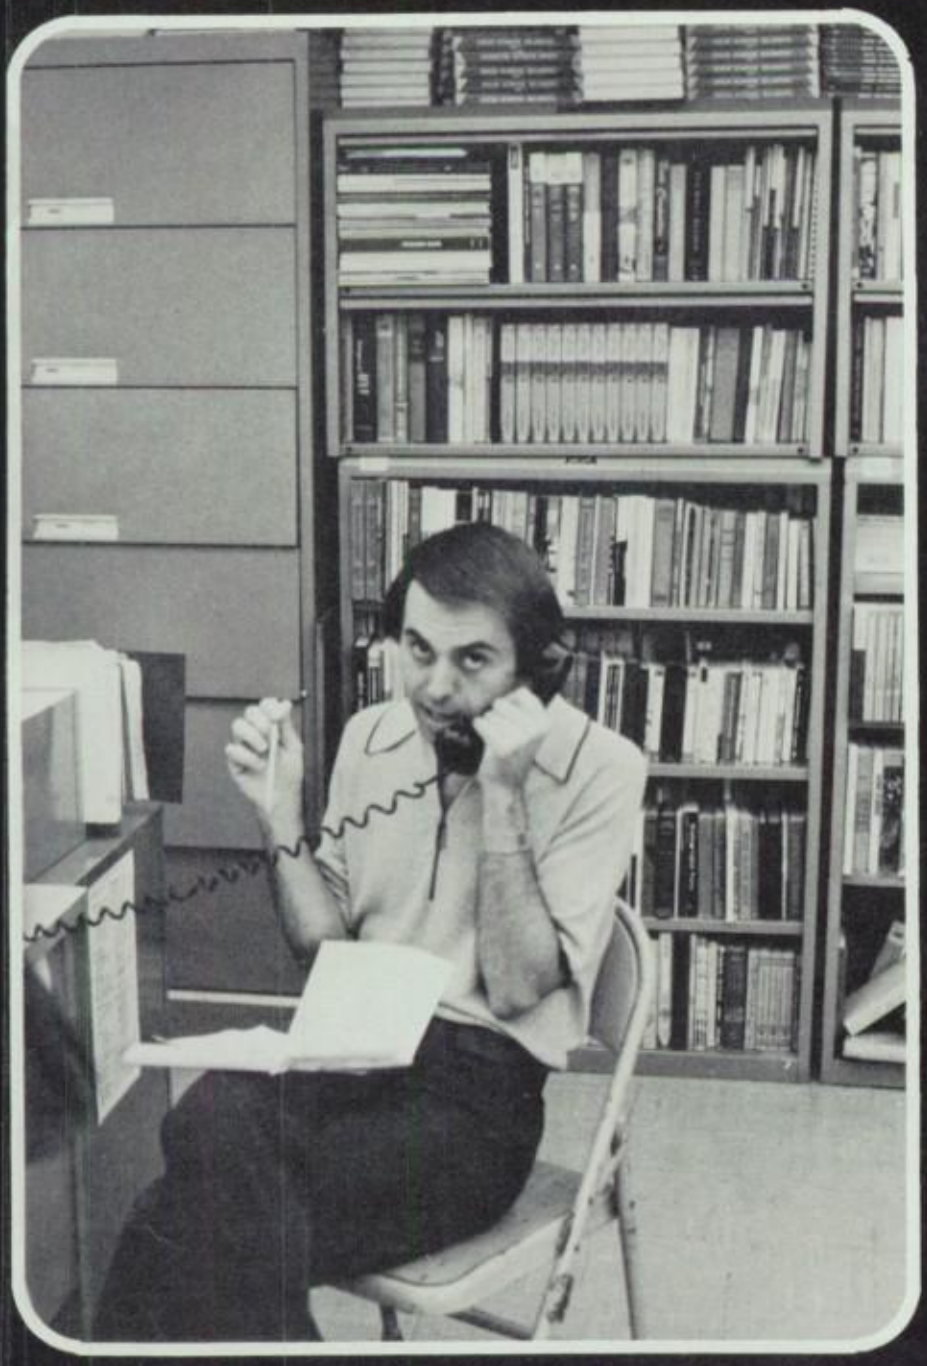
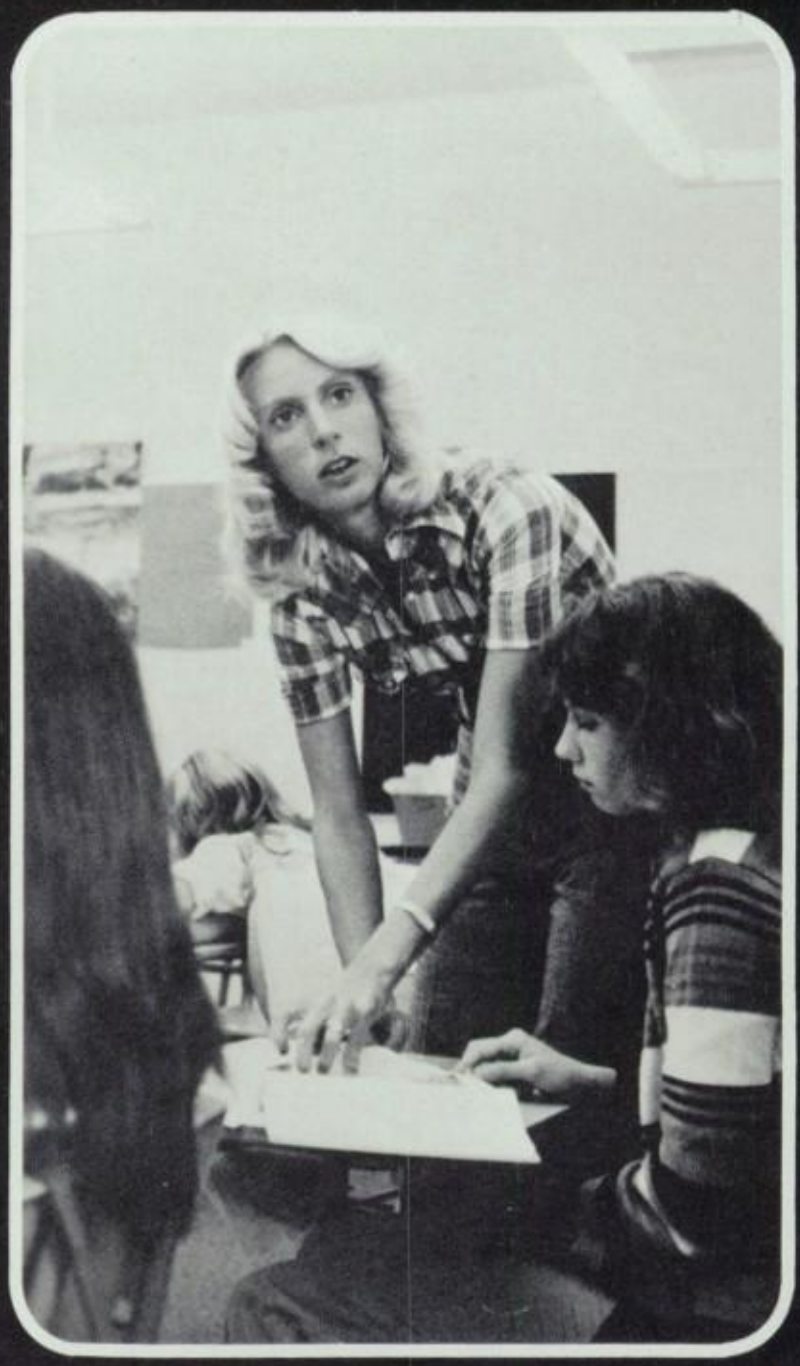
Specialized Programs Widen Curriculum

Included in WHS's wide curriculum are the Title I program, which offers a more individualized teacher-student program of study; the Title VII program, for students of Hispanic descent who can better achieve scholastically with a bilingual program; and the Title IV program, which invovles many students of American Indian descent.

Supervising with wisdom, are the WHS administrators. Mr. Kolanoski, completing his fourth successful year as principal of WHS, and Mr. Baca, Mr. Rollins, Mr. Iverson, Mr. Gubernick, and Mr. Christensen, all assistant principals, work very hard to help students gain a well-rounded high school education. Students find they can go to individual administrators or teachers for advice. With the very competent staff here at WHS, one can easily understand how a student can build a great student-friend relationship with an advisor or teacher.





Guidance Harmonized With Friendship

The HBUHSD designs the best possible curriculum for its students. WHS is directly affected by all decisions made by the Board of Education, which meets once a month in meetings open to the public. This year, a Clean Campus campaign was initiated to try to promote cleanliness on the high school campuses in the district. The first semester winner for the '76-'77 school year was none other than WHS! The trophy was displayed in the administration building, and a flag waved over the campus to remind all students of our joint accomplishment.

Administrators, counselors, teachers, and students all work together for nine months a year. These nine months are made easier by an open-minded administration, by educators who devise interesting ways to teach their subjects, and by students who accept the responsibilities of education in order to prepare themselves for the future.

Down on the farm at the WHS campus, students learn everything from family crops to raising cattle. With some of the best facilities around, the Westminster High School Agricultural Department is a really good deal. There's a greenhouse, farming area, animal corrals, and much, much more.

Classes offered include nearly everything anyone could want to know about agriculture. Introduction to Agriculture Society, Park Maintenance, Recreational Grounds Development, Agricultural Science Skills, Animal Science, and even Vocational Horticulture.

Each Student's Mind, Projected Through Art

The place for the rising DaVinci to develop his or her art talent is in the WHS Art Department. This department offers courses in ceramics, painting, crafts and freehand drawing. At Christmas the students select examples of their creative work to put on display in the art show. Some students even raise money by selling their finished pieces.

Classes offered through the Art Department can help the prospective fashion designer, the aspiring ceramicist, or the student who wishes to develop a hobby.

The Business Department Helps Students to Build Skills for the Business World

The Business Department at WHS serves to prepare students for all aspects of the business world. Training is available for those who anticipate becoming accountants, secretaries, bookkeepers or who plan to someday run their own business. The department encourages students who are planning to seek jobs soon after graduation to develop the skills that ensure finding employment: typing, shorthand, accounting methods and an understanding of basic business law concepts.

The English Department—the largest on the WHS campus—carries a heavy burden. The English Department must reach students who need to improve their basic grammar skills as well as those who wish to prepare for college.

The department meets the interests of all students by offering a wide variety of courses including Communication Skills, American and English Literature, Creative Writing, Journalism, Theater, Mythology, Speech, History of Film, and Public Relations. This year the department also developed a Writing Program to assist ninth grade students who have writing difficulties.

Freshman Writing Program Begun

Following the Board of Trustees' decision to develop a specialized program to help HBUHSD students improve their writing skills, three new writing teachers were hired and all freshmen were scheduled into classes of no more than sixteen students. The writing students spent one semester working on their personal writing problems. Writing samples prepared at the beginning and end of the semester showed the success of the program.

Giving training in nearly all mechanical work is the main idea behind the Industrial Arts Department. This department is one of the most popular on this campus. Both boys and girls are involved in this unique program.

Classes allow the students to work on actual machines, depending on the class. For example, automotive classes change oil, tune-ups, lubrication, and tire rotations. All this enables the students to be trained in a specific field.

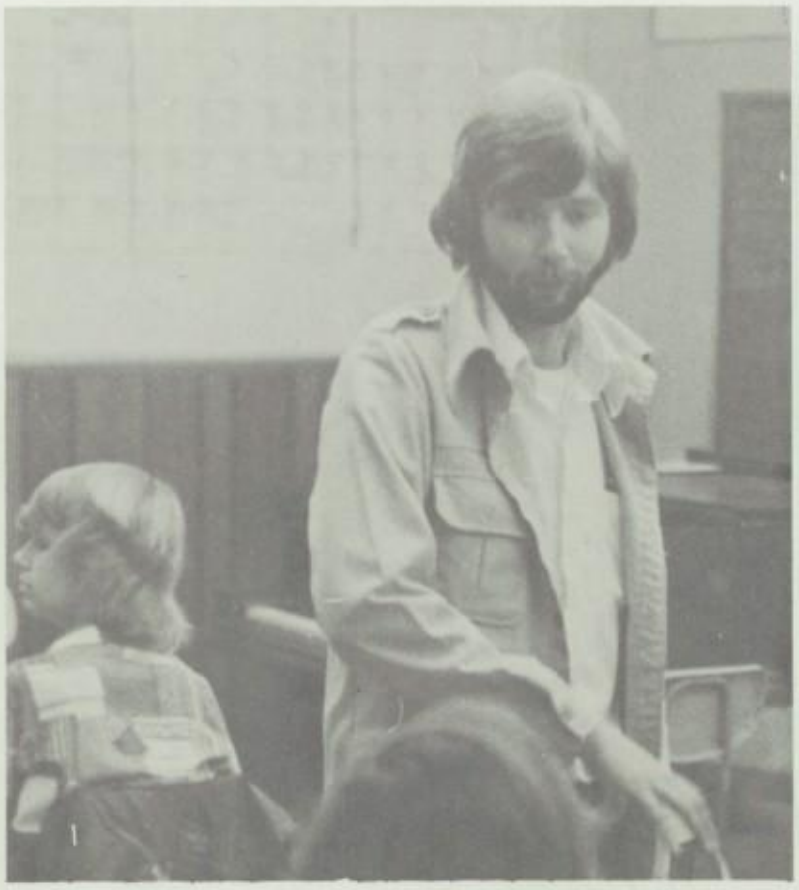
Music is the Language of the World



Many consider music the universal language. At Westminster High School students in the Music Department are developing their potential skills to communicate through this medium. A wide variety of classes attract great numbers of students to this program.

Each year the Music Department provides entertainment and musical accompaniment for many important WHS events. One of the WHS departments most able to awaken interest and to develop self-motivation for study is the Science Department. Courses range from Basic Physical Science and Earth Science, which provide general introduction to the subject area, through college preparatory classes in chemistry and physiology. Several Science Department offerings appeal to students with special interests: Ecological Biology, Marine Biology, and Modern Health are several.

All students must fulfill science requirements in order to graduate from high school. The great variety of science classes available on the Lion campus provides a personalized and stimulating means for meeting these requirements.

The smallest but one of the strongest departments on campus is the Reading Department. The teachers in this department seek to help the students who suffer weaknesses in basic reading skills. Students spend time developing reading habits and techniques that will help them in other classes.

Three different types of classes are included in this program. They are the developmental reading classes, reading clinic, and remedial reading classes. The department head, Mrs. Segars, feels that the reading program at WHS is well-equipped to assist all students who wish to improve their reading skills.

Teaching the students of Westminster High to drive is the responsibility of the men and women who teach Traffic Safety classes. Students must know the "rules of the road" before they are allowed to begin driving Practice.

Whether the student wants to know how to drive a car or cycle, this is the place to do it. All classes are taught to handle a car with ease and confidence, observing the rights of others as they drive. This strong determination to teach driving courtesy is the quality of success in this program.

1976-1977: As Seniors, four long years of learning were quickly coming to an end; it was our final year of high school.

The year's activities were planned and organized by class officers—Brian Snyder, Chris Navarro, Stacey Kanda, Terri Acosta, and Marci Stuckey—and by other dedicated members of the Senior Class. Richard Douglas and Ken Skolyan contributed endless hours of time to advise and assist the students. The time spent in planning activities made it an inspiring year.

The year began with the traditional festive event, the Senior Luau. The Seniors found the evening an appropriate way to start the year: surrounded by friends. They also enjoyed the delicious, exotic Polynesian dishes, dancing to the sounds of the Third Creation, and observing live Polynesian entertainment.

Then in October, outrageous as it may sound, the Senior Class sponsored a Basketball-Badminton Marathon in the WHS gym. The goal was to break the Guinness world record of 70 hours of continuous play in basketball. They also wanted to establish a record of continuous play in co-educational badminton. The fourteen participants (two of them girls) were all unaware of what was in store for them. Sore, tense muscles and the anxiety brought on by so little sleep during the three day weekend made the event emotionally as well as physically tiring. But the seniors pushed on, striving to accomplish something not only for themselves, but for the school. They proved they could do it. On October 29, at 12:00 midnight the badminton players met their goal of 64 hours, while the basketball players continued play until 6:30 a.m. setting a new world record of 72 hours and one minute.

The next event for the Senior Class after the marathon was homecoming. Much time was spent to plan the traditional Homecoming class competition event of decorating Buckingham Square. The Seniors' hard efforts were rewarded with a tie for first place.

While our Lion varsity football team was making their way to the CIF finals, preparations were being made for the traditional graduation necessities: graduation announcements, Baccalaureate, and the Senior breakfast.

During the chilly month of December the WHS campus was used as a location for a Xmas tree lot. Seniors signed up to help man the lot, receiving $1 for each hour worked credited toward their grad night ticket. The workers' sales abilities quickly emptied the parking lot of pine trees.

The year ended, with the last group activity, Grad Night. Memories were recapped on the Seniors' enjoyable trip to San Diego via AM Track Railroad and on the harbor cruise taken the following Friday night.

Bicentennial of America, the Event of the Decade

Celebrating what has been termed a national love affair, the Bicentennial of America was the longest, greatest, and most flamboyantly featured event of the decade. The official launching date for the Bicentennial, as decreed by Congress, was March 1975. This was the beginning of a multitude of events which were to stimulate minds here in the US and abroad into paying respect to the dedication of our forefathers and the successful growth of the nation. By paying tribute to the Bicentennial, we were offered a chance to reflect on what the nation has accomplished, and, most important of all, on the freedom it has offered us.

The American population soon became exposed to constant reminders of the revolutionary period of the country. Through the CBS network's "Bicentennial Minutes" most Americans became aware of a great many important events, as well as interesting trivia, that took place during the revolutionary years. "Tour America" campaigns were promoted by travel agencies as a good majority of the population visited historical sights all along the eastern coast and, of course, in Pennsylvania, the birthplace of the Constitution.

Students at Westminster High School participated directly in the Bicentennial celebration when the band, choir, and Pageantry Corps were chosen to perform for President Gerald Ford at Mile Square Park in Fountain Valley, October 24, 1976. President Ford was visiting Orange County as part of his West Coast tour and re-election campaign and was greeted by an estimated crowd of 25,000.

Principal T. E. Kolanoski commented, "It's a great opportunity for the members of these groups to face the President; it's the chance of a lifetime."

But, like most good things, the Bicentennial also had its bad points. The year-long celebration provided commercial companies an opportunity to gain healthy profits from Bicentennial-conscious Americans. Jack-in-the-Box had its Liberty mugs; Log Cabin its syrup bottles; time capsules were filled with objects and documents of 1976. The celebration soon became so commercialized, it nearly lost its special value and meaning.

On July 4, 1976, New York City hosted the grand finale of the country's Bicentennial celebrations. "Operation Sail" featured a fleet of 150 sailing ships from all over the world, gliding through New York's Upper Bay past a newly-polished Statue of Liberty to salute America's independence.

Perhaps the strong influence of the Bicentennial over so long a period of time forced some Americans to lose their enthusiasm before July 4, 1976; but most believed that simply living through the celebration provided memories to share with future generations as the nation ventures into its third century of national independence.

1977 - Ushers in Variety of Concerns

SPORTS

As traditional and as anticipated as the rise of the sun each day, the Pasadena Rose Bowl was once again a main attraction. Following the gala and festive display of flowers, the Rose Bowl game featured USC and Michigan State. Outcome of the sporting event: USC beat Michigan 14-7 in the 63rd annual game.

Superbowl XI featured the Oakland Raiders from the AFC, and the Minnesota Vikings of the NFC. Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton all but promised a Viking victory to fans; but, as it turned out, Oakland beat Minnesota 32-14, in a game of practically no contest.

JUSTICE

After 102 days filled with trials, interviews, and too much publicity, Gary Gilmore was finally granted his wish-death by execution. The 23 year old Utah man was shot to death after he pleaded with authorities to carry out his death sentence for the cold-blooded murders of two men.

When officials would not execute Gilmore, the prisoner attempted to take his own life, twice. It seemed that Gilmore would not be allowed to die as, even minutes before his execution was to take place, it was temporarily postponed. Finally, in early morning hours, Gilmore was executed by a firing squad, bringing back the use of capital punishment in the U.S. for the first time in 9 years.

United States found Jimmy Carter taking the oath of office. The procession down Philadelphia Ave. led by the newly installed president was different than ever before. Jimmy Carter walked to the White House, greeting onlookers the entire way with his wife Roselynn and his daughter Amy beside him.

As Carter took office, his pardon to draft-evaders went into effect. The pardon applied strictly to evaders, and not to deserters of the Viet Nam war, nor did it cover soldiers with less than honorable discharges. Many chose to refuse Carter's pardon in order to pressure the president and Congress into granting total amnesty. Several who had fled to Canada and Europe chose to keep their newly acquired citizenships, and made no plans to return to the United States.

President Carter delivered his first "fireside chat" to the American public. The 20-minute talk dealt with the conservation of energy, along with numerous other issues. Although given from the same room as talks by Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Carter's "fireside chat" differed quite a bit.

FORTUNE

Youth, good looks, talent, fame and fortune was not enough to keep comedian-actor Freddie Prinze from deciding to end it all. The star of the TV comedy series "Chico and the Man" shot a 32 caliber bullet through his head, leaving himself no chance for survival. The young comedian was very depressed over the breakup of his marriage, business pressures, and the concern of an impending charge of driving while under the influence of drugs. Freddie Prinze left a note saying he simply couldn't "take it anymore." Colleagues in the world of comedy hesitated to discuss the possibilities for great success that lay ahead for Prinze, who was extremely gifted, yet unable to cope. The young actor died January 29, leaving behind his estranged wife Kathy, and 10 month old son, Freddie Jr.

Fads

Mopeds: "Un-bikes" are California's latest means of economical transportation. These motor-powered bikes can be seen traveling all over city streets, for they have become very popular. The best transportation of Hawaii has hit the west coast—pedal a few times, and you're off on a powered bike!

Skateboarding: What used to be a kid's street activity has become structured and commercial. Skateboarding began in Southern California in the 60's, and has now become so popular that it is a $300 million-dollar-a-year industry, and it's still growing. Here in Orange County, we have "Skateboard Junction" in Trabuco Canyon and "Concrete Wave" in Anaheim. Both of these sites are said to be a skateboarder's heaven, and they attract customers from ages 3 to 35.

Seniors Exercised Voting Privileges in the 1976 Presidential Election

The summer months of 1976 launched campaigns for the presidential election, as the two major political parties of the country held their national conventions. The Democratic ticket offered its voters a wide variety of candidates: Muskey, Governor Jerry Brown of California, Udall, McCarthy, and Governor of Georgia, Jimmy Carter, who eventually became the Democrats' choice to challenge the Republican party for the presidency of the United States. Other expected nominees, Hubert Humphrey and Ted Kennedy, both turned down the opportunity to run for president.

Among the Republicans, the selection of the presidential candidate had to be made between two very well-known politicians: ex-California Governor Ronald Reagan, and presidential incumbent Gerald Ford, who finally emerged the victor of the two and who represented the Republicans in the November election.

Thus, the actual campaigning for the presidential election began. Each nominee had several five-minute commercials on television to show the voters how much of a "family man" he was. The commercials also responded to the public's concerns by giving each candidate's opinions on the major issues of the election.

The two candidates participated in three debates on TV, the first such debates since the Kennedy-Nixon campaigning of 1960. There was even one vice presidential debate, between Walter Mondale, and Ford's running mate Bob Dole.

As would be expected, a little color was added to the presidential campaign of 1976, when Carter was interviewed by Playboy Magazine. The ensuing article aroused a good deal of controversy. It had been Carter's intention, Democrats maintained, to simply display his candor and openness to the American people. The people, too, displayed frankness: some were shocked, others pleased, with Carter's direct responses to questions.

After a great deal of effort and money were put into campaigning for the presidency, Americans had to weigh the issues surrounding the election, evaluate the candidates, and study the promises that each had set before them. On November 7, 1975, the people of the United States made their final decision on who would help keep this country in running order. For many seniors who were 18 and could vote, this was perhaps one of the most serious responsibilities of the year. Jimmy Carter of Plains, Georgia, was chosen by the people of America to direct the country for the next four years.

Best Sellers Capture Largest Television Audiences

In the past year television has been able to captivate its audience, with a touch of class, through made-for-television movie serials. The TV movie RICH MAN, POOR MAN, taken from the best selling novel by Irwin Shaw dealt with the lives of brothers Rudy and Tom Jordache, their desires, failures, and accomplishments. The show was a tremendous success, and a virtual trendsetter. For twelve weeks, those addicted to television became "hooked" on RMPM; producers took heed of the audience's approval of such a format, and the networks followed up on it.

ABC produced FAMILY which depicted the experiences of a typical family in present day America. ROOTS, taken from the best seller by Alex Haley, showed the story of most American blacks, beginning with their African origins and tracing their developement through slavery to present day attitudes and life-styles. The show became a vehicle for Black Americans to recognize their personal accomplishments. NBC offered CAPTAINS AND THE KINGS, Taylor Caldwell's novel about a young Irish orphan, Joseph Armagn, who traveled to America during the potatoe famine in Ireland. While in America Armagh learned to despise many things in life; however he longed for his own son to become president of the US and was determined to see it happen. NBC also produced another novel, ONCE AN EAGLE, the story of two young men who changed in human values as they went through world wars. Bringing novels to television seems to have awakened a dormant interest for thoughtful and cultured TV material.

As well as the dramatized novel serials, certain comedy shows became very popular. HAPPY DAYS revived the good times of the late '50's and '60's, and Fonzie added his own special charisma to the show. WELCOME BACK KOTTER presented TV with an all new gang of casual kids the Sweathogs. Barbarino, Horshack, Epstein, and Washington all became instant idols of high school students. Not following traditional situation comedies, SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE offered satire at its best, with an extremely talented group of comedian-actors, "The Not Ready For Prime Time Players". A really off, beat show, MARY HARTMAN, MARY HARTMAN was supposed to portray an "everyday woman facing true to life situations". Although unlike the daytime soaps, MH, MH was a great success and often very controversial.

Movie Greats Come to TV

Perhaps one of the greatest events of television was the premiere of GONE WITH THE WIND, November 7 and 8. The motion picture GONE WITH THE WIND has been termed the greatest movie ever made. Taken from the best-selling novel by Margaret Mitchell, the novel covered the lifes of headstrong beauty, Scarlett O'Hara during the South's difficult adjustment to the Reconstruction period which followed the Civil War. Living a life of southern plantation luxury since birth, Scarlett, along with other memorable characters faced the tragedy of losing their wealth and position after the Civil War. The epic entwined drama and romance, and made the film an unforgetable classic. The long awarded television premeire of the movie drew an estimated 110 viewers to "The greatest picture ever made."

An equally important event in the '76-'77 season was the television premiere of 2001: A SPACE ODDESEY. This monumental space epic, directed by Stanley Kubmick, became the most popular science fiction movie ever shown in theaters.

Released in the late 1960's,. 2001: A SPACE ODDESEY was a number of years in the making. Its Brilliant visual and photographic effects still retained most of their majesty when shown on the tube. Perhaps the only real complaint of those who saw the work on television was the great number of commercial breaks in the movie. As usual, these breaks had a tendency to distract the viewer from the already complicated but fascinating storyline.

Movies Featured the Occult and Classics

With the trend of television movies being made from best selling novels, the theater world had to work hard to compete. During the summer, Satanical flicks were the major interest. THE OMEN, starring Gregory Peck and Lee Remick, was perhaps the best of these films. The re-release of the classic THE EXORCIST went over just as well with the public as it did the first time it was shown. And, of course, there were many other film attempts to present horror to audiences: some included THE DEVIL WITHIN HER, BEYOND THE DOOR, and GOD TOLD ME TO.

On the dramatic side, the summer's biggest movie, if not the strangest, was ODE TO BILLY JO. Taken directly from the song by Bobbie Gentry, the movie dealt with a troubled teenage boy and the girl who learned of his problems and attempted to help him straighten them out. Touching on Watergate, ALL THE PRESIDENT'S MEN starred two topnotch actors, Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman. Together, they competently portrayed Woodward and Bernstein, two Washington reporters, who uncovered the Watergate scandal. The classic KING KONG became a love story of '77. The third remake of A STAR IS BORN combined the talents of a gifted Barbara Streisand and Kris Kristofferson in a better than average love-success story.

Two popular movies of the year were ROCKY and NETWORK. Both movies received Academy Award nominations; Peter Finch earned a nomination for Best Actor. Comedy offered laughs with another Mel Brooks' satire, SILENT MOVIE. The film was exactly what the title implied-silent. Woody Allen starred in THE FRONT, Gene Wilder and Richard Pryor in SILVER STREAK, a frantic and hectic comedy about a most unusual train ride. One day in the life of a CAR WASH broke the monotony of an ordinary comedy and, like these other films, brought the public to the movie theaters for its entertainment.

Rock Fans Found It Impossible to Choose One Favorite Rock Group During the '76-'77 School Year

After the Beatles' break-up in the late sixties and the rise of Led Zepplin in the seventies, the rock world so diversified that the average rock fan found it impossible to choose only one favorite group. The past year continued this division of the rock world through the resurgence of punk rock, the establishment of country-rock discomania, and the continued popularity of both heavy metal rock and contemporary rock (top 40).

A combination of all of these styles enabled the past year's rock sound to appeal to a wider variety of people. The more mellow sounds of Chicago's "If You Leave Me Now," the disco beat of Andrea True Connection's "More, More, More," the rocking tune of Elvin Bishop's "Fooled Around and Fell in Love," and Kiss's "Beth" all added colorful dimensions to the year's musical spectrum.

The Ramones, a new rock and roll band that copied the tough street bands of the 50's, led the way for punk rock's new found popularity. Their goal was to stick to the basic rock sounds achieved by using simple chords and bubblegum lyrics. Other groups that excelled in this area included the Bay City Rollers ("Money Honey", "I Only Want to be With You") and the Captain and Tennile ("Muskrat Love" and "Shop Around").

In the country-rock field, the Eagles remained unsurpassed as the top group. Still, most people fell in love with the Bellamy Brothers ("Let Your Love Flow"). The Marshall Tucker Band ("Fire on the Mountain") and John Denver ("I'm Sorry") also popularized country rock. The Eagles, however, retained their top quality rock with the release of "Hotel California", which included "New Kid in Town" and "Hotel California."

Whether for good or bad, disco was the most influential rock style of the year. Memorable tunes such as Wild Cherry's "Play the Funky Music" and Earth, Wind, and Fire's "Saturday Night" appealed to nearly all rock fans. K.C. and the Sunshine Band, The Walter Murphy Band, and the Spinners all helped create memories of cruising the hot dance floors in the wee hours of the morning. Even Elton John ("Bite Your Lip") and David Bowie ("Golden Years") contributed to what was the biggest fad of the year.

Though heavey metal continued to be one of the most popular types of music, it seemed harder to distinguish between Top 40 and hard rock since the latter received more AM play. Aerosmith's "Walk This Way" and "Back in the Saddle" helped pave the way for other hard bands including Boston, Nazareth, and Blue Oyster. The use of various psychedelic sounds brought out Manford Mann's "Blinded by the Light" and Gary Wright's "Dream Weaver". Both relied heavily on synthesizers which were being used by top bands.

Looking back upon the year, many musical high points stand out; each brings back significant memories to individual rock fans. Whether it was the original stage show of Kiss and the Tubes, the depression of Elton John, the Beatles' blitz, or the comeback of the Beach Boys, the year's musical developments were exciting and promising of even more radical changes for the future.

Swine Flu Made 1976 Headlines Causing a Major Medical Scare to the Nation's People

A new disease made headlines during the past year causing a major medical scare. Called "Swine Flu," the disease became a nationwide concern. The disease itself was a mystery. Swine Flu had not been around since the 1800's, and scientists had a hard time linking the new disease to the old one.

In an attempt to combat any possible epidemic of the strange illness, President Ford initiated an innoculation program. The program was aimed at helping the elderly and weak citizens; vaccine was given only to those 18 years old and over. The plan was to overcome the fear of an epidemic, but the vaccine only caused the opposite. After receiving vaccinations, several people fell victim to a strange paralysis. Some were bedridden for weeks. In fear that more who received the vaccine would suffer strange side effects, the program was halted.

To add to the panic of the Swine Flu, the public received another scare from Philadelphia. Several American Legion members who had attended their annual convention suddenly suffered fatal illness. At first, the public felt the predicted Swine Flu epidemic had hit. However, the new virus could not be directly linked to Swine Flu and puzzled scientists sought, desperately, for an explanation. Nothing totally explained the cause of Legionnaires' Disease, but as related deaths finally came to a halt interest in and fear of both diseases slowly diminished.

Special Student Feature Story by BOB STEINS

The Winter and Summer Olympics of 1976 were the highpoints of the year for most sports fans. The biggest name of the games was 22 year old Australian skier, Frang Klammer. Klammer won what is probably the prime event in the winter games-the men's downhill ski race.

The US had its share of winners among the winter medalists at Innsbruck, Austria. Bill Kotch won a silver medal in the 30 meter cross-country race, the first time any medal was captured by the US in cross-country skiing. Sheila Young won a gold, silver, and a bronze medal in speed-skating. But without a doubt, the biggest US winner was figure-skater Dorothy Hamill, who executed a nearly flawless performance on the final day to bring the gold back to the US.

Montreal was the sight of the Summer Olympic Games. It, too, was full of surprises and upsets. Bruce Jenner of the US won the Decathlon a grueling 2 day, 10 event competition-setting a new world record.

The biggest name to come out of the games was that of Nadia Comaneci. Nadia earned seven perfect scores in gymnastics. No one before had ever reached a 10.0 rating.

In pro-football the Oakland Raiders finally won the big one, Super Bowl XI, by demolishing the Minnesota Vikings, 32-14. The Rams, having quarterback trouble, lost once again in the NFC title game. Once again USC won the Rose Bowl, and Tony Darset of Pittsburg received the Heisman trophy.

The Monreal Canadians surprised the Philadelphia Flyers by winning four straight games to take the Stantez cup in the increasingly popular sport of ice hockey.

In baseball, the Reds won nearly everything in sight, sweeping both the National Legion play-offs and then taking the World Series title from the Yankees.

Dr. J. was the name in basketball as the ABA and the NBA merged. The Boston Celtics won the championship over the darkhorse Phoenix Suns. The Laker's #44-Jerry West-came back as a coach to lead the team to victory.

Women's sports continued to draw bigger crowds and well known athletes. Janet Guthrie, and Shirley (cha cha) Maldowing took awards in sports car racing. Chris Evert continued her dominance of women's tennis by winning both the Wimbleton and Forest Hills meets, among others. Altogether Evert earned $290,000 for the year, proving again that women's sports can attract public interest and strong financial backing.

Individualist Fashions and Views of the WHS Generation

Looking back on the 76-'77 school year, we remember that a great amount of our energies were centered around seeing and being seen. The fashions of the year served as a means to portray the new, more individualistic, and slightly sophisticated views of this generation of high school people.

This past year's fashions for girls were chic, layered and a variety lengths. The biggest fad was gauchos and boots combined with a blouse, maybe a sweater, and almost always a scarf around the neck to complete the picture. Another favorite for girls was combining a below-the-knee dress with pants and either belting the look or letting it hang freely. Dresses once again entered the scene in the look of the forties and were often teamed with many bracelets and skinny chains of different lengths around the neck. The look which the '76-'77 girl presented was one of femininity and youthful sophistication.

Even the boys got in on the new fashions. Instead of tennies and teeshirts, many of the guys were wearing ski sweaters or vests teamed with dress shirts and cords. In addition, earth shoes and wallabies took the place of worn-out tennies. Hair was shorter and neatly styled, and many guys went the route of the curly look with a permanent. All in all, the '76-'77 school year was one of new ideas, new fads, and new fashions.

We Realize What Senior Life Really Meant

Graduating from high school was a long awaited goal. Reflecting back, high school taught GREG BURNS what he would be: 13 years wasted ... It was great for ADOLFO CASTILLO, but his senior year was the best because of the activities he was able to participate in ... To BRENDAN COUGHLIN and JOHN SHAFFER it was like birth: it prepared them to enter the real world... It was a fulfilling experience that BARBARA DESMOND will never forget ... Although a lot of people think it is a waste of time, DARIN EASTBURN thought it was a lot of fun; if you want to learn you can, but you have to want to... It was an educational experience for JENNI EDWARDS in which she found education came mainly through experience ... JONI ESPINDOLA realized she was close to becoming an adult ... 1976 -77 was a whole new experience from ALBERT FIMLAID'S past high school years, since it was his first year at WHS. ... Sports taught DAVE FIORELLA to never give up ... Tennis let BILL FOERSCH escape from "monotonous study" ... WHS helped DAVE HERNANDEZ mature socially; he felt the educational system was good, but throughout the four years it was repeated ... Besides the academic value, four years helped JACQUE KALLMAN organize herself in preparation for the path ahead of her ... JEFF LAKE realized what real sportsmanship was while being involved in a school sport ... WHS was the best four years of KIM MCINTYRE'S life, she is going to miss it ... STEVE MEADE learned how to co-opereate in a group and with other people ... To SCOTT MINAMI it was simply four years of learning how to get along with others, and now he is ready to educate himself ... It was like walking out of one world into another for JUNE NAKANISHI ... The four years were exciting for GERRY NEWKIRK ... involvement allowed PAM SALKA to meet more people ... WHS was fun for DAVE SEVERIN; he will hate to leave. ... WHS put MIKE SODDERS one step closer to his future ... High School made KAREN TURNER realize that a lot of things can be discovered through further education and activities in the school ... It gave ARNOLD VILLEREAL nothing but a headache ... To BILL WEBB it was like a big trash can; you got out of it, what you put into it.

PEOPLE

Different backgrounds, personalities, ethnic groups, habits, and lifestyles of WHS students add a unique dimension to the campus life. Westminster High School's populace has a wider variation of student interests than any other campus in the HBUHSD. This creates a better atmosphere in which to learn and adapt, it is almost as if the students exist in the actual outside world. But the campus enables them to meet and befriend other people in a casual, relaxed atmosphere.

People: Building Futures, Friendships, and Memories Together

During the years spent in high school, students learn to exist in harmony with other people. They find friends in the people whom they meet during school. Together they grow and mature into young adults who will soon pass through the door to responsibility and the future. And, although students are at school largely to educate themselves for future employment, the people whom they meet there help them to learn a far more important lesson, one that will be with them for the rest of their lives: how to live harmoniously with others.

The years of elementary and junior high school provide friends who are often lost track of after graduation. For awhile they remain a memory, but eventually these memories vanish. All that remains of these childhood friends is a lesson in co-existence.

In high school, some old friends remain, but more new friends are soon made. And, in high school, one meets people of varing interests. The lesson one gains is how to adapt to a multi-cultured world in which people are as different as night and day, a world in which differences increase the opportunities for enlightenment. The lesson to be learned from all the people met during high school is a lesson that will affect and alter the lifestyle that each individual will accept as his given role in the world.

High school, like the rest of the world, is composed of many different kinds of people, people who have the courage to step out of a crowd and stand up for a belief that they feel are right. It is filled with people who admit mistakes and strive to do better. High school is people walking a pathway with others, but leaving an impression of their own on that road.

PC

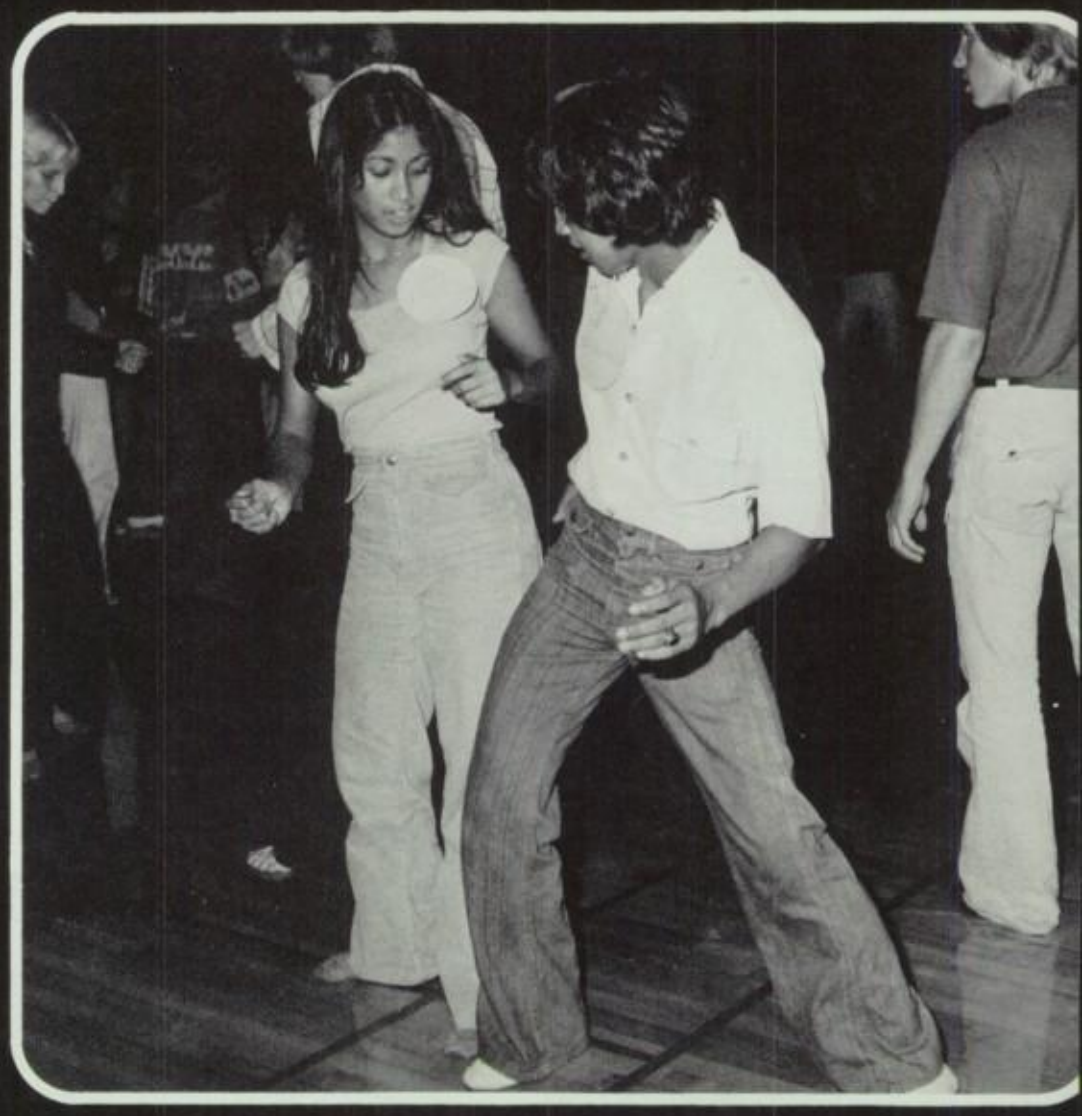
People cross over the same bridges, but each learns and grows into a separate and unique individual. People become involved in order to change and better situations that displease them. People share laughter and tears, happiness and sadness, all that goes with a high school life.

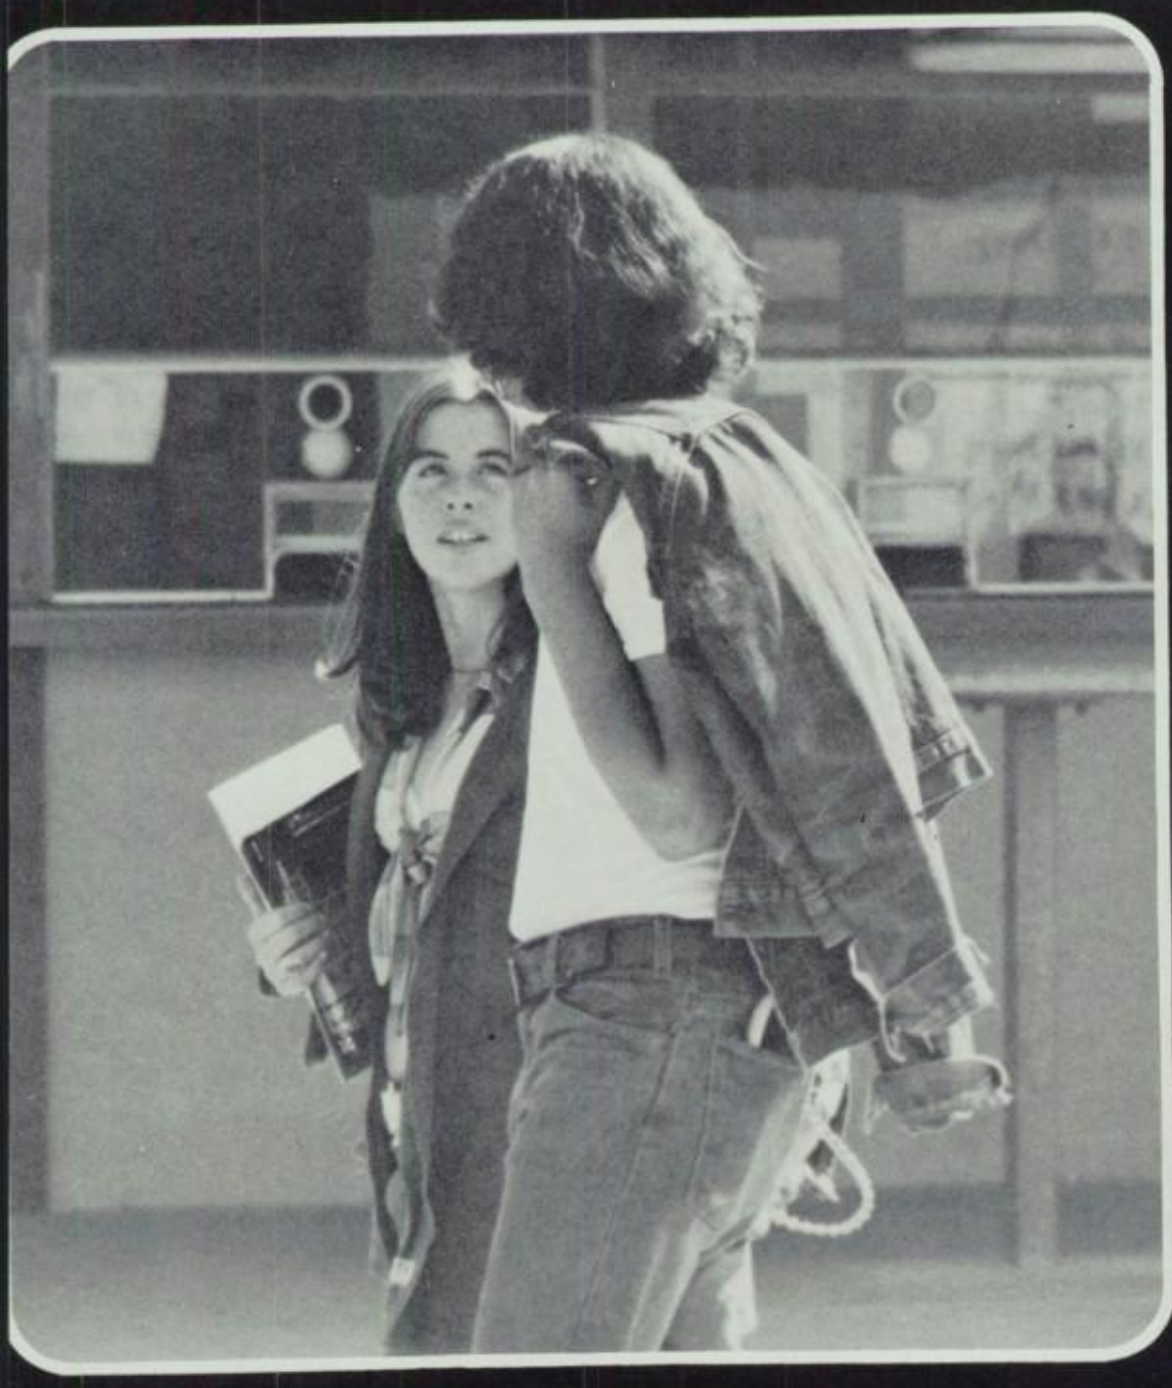
Peo

All these people and many others are present everyday on campus. A few choose not to extend a hand of friendship and, thereby, fail to meet and gain from other people. Most know all or many who share their campus. And when these people step into the future, they have the courage and self pride to make decisions of their own; they have self-confidence in the wisdom that they've gained.

People are individuals who must co-exist with one another, regardless of race, personality or background. Students must strive together with friends to build memories that will be cherished forever, since one of the most important aspects of high school is the people one meets there. People must be willing to be themselves at all times, whether they be gloomy or bright. People must decare themselves to be what they are and not what others think they should be.

High school is much more than the parties, the football games, and the classes. It is the people who exist in these. People are important and must be remembered, but living only in shared memories is wasteful. It is learning from these shared times and their memories that forms the mature individual who will take the first step from the bridge connecting childhood and maturity and plant it firmly in the future, proudly proclaiming to all, "World, here I am."





I am, I said
To no one there
And no one heard at all
Not even the chair

I am, I cried
I am, said I
And I am lost
And I can even say why
Leavin' me lonely still.

One of the most enthusiastic groups on campus this year was the Junior Class. Supervised by Mrs. Olga Tanner and directed by President Jeff Snyder, the Class of '78 fared well in class competition and scholastic achievements. The class sponsored the school's largest dance, the Junior-Senior Prom, which was held at the Buena Park Convention Center. The event provided one of the most memorable evenings of the year.

The Junior class proudly claims that they have successfully accomplished everything they intended to do this year. The Class of '78 certainly added to the overall spirit that was displayed on campus throughout the year.

President-Arlise Emerson Vice President-Lesa Zaleski
Secretary-Mandie Newhouse Treasurer-Nancy Amhrien
Representative-Lori Heise

The Sophomore Class contributed greatly to W.H.S. during the year by becoming involved in everything the school did. President Arlise Emerson encouraged the sophomores to contribute spirit and enthusiasm; the class also did well in all facets of competition, from yelling at pep rallies to decorating Buckingham Square.

Advisor Mrs. Cheryl Victor helped the Class of '79 to put on the traditional Peasant Prom. Having the dance the night before Halloween inspired the student body to come in costumes to the prom which was simply entitled, "This Masquerade." The dance proved to be a huge success with the help of the rocking sounds of the group, Medella. With their tremendous spirit, the Sophomore Class has proved to be a valuable asset to the school.

1)Sophomore Class Officers Arlise Emerson and Mandy Newhouse consult with council on upcoming activities.

1)Penny Carter admires the plants and tries to decide which one to buy. 2)Fred Betz refuses to share his apple with a very disappointed Ritz Aranjo. 3)Fans at the football game look anxiously at the game as the Lion offense heads for the goal. 4)Hungry Irene Kaufman settles for fingers instead of waiting longer for her food. 5)Pete Valone and Donna Henderson stroll down Buckingham Square after a long day's work.

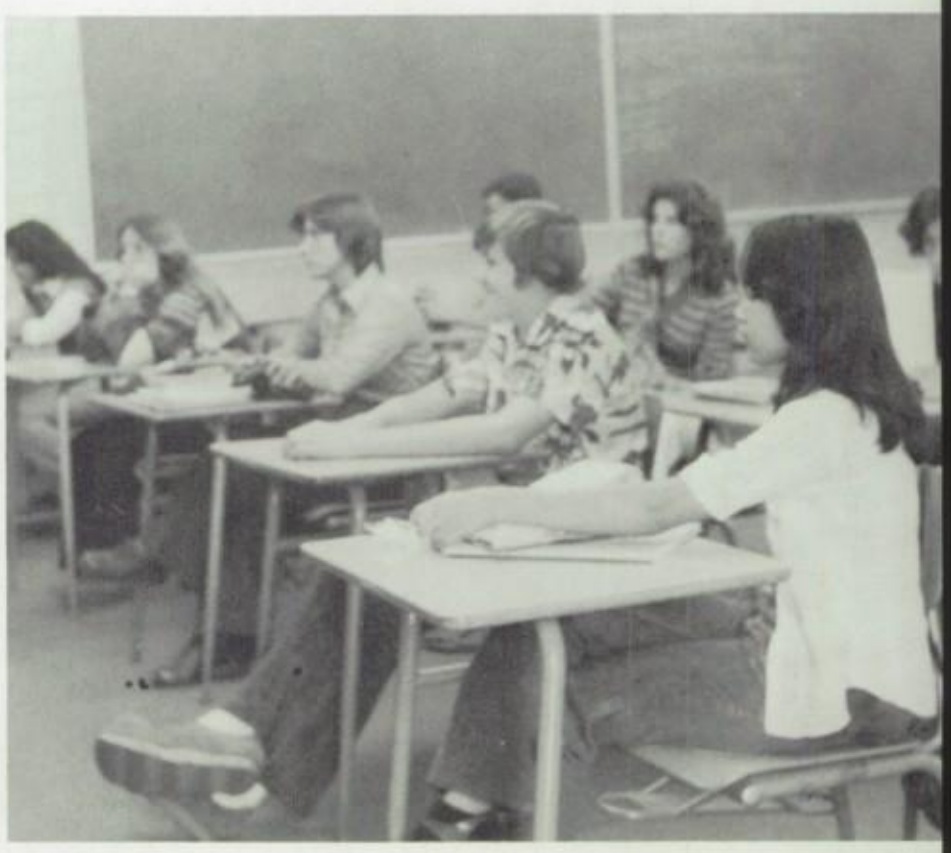
Freshmen Officers Class of '80

President-Abel Ceballos
Secretary-Laurie Hernandez

Vice President-Sandy Freislinger
Treasurer-Carol Fisher

Representative-Terry Sianez

This year's Freshman Class proved that-with spirit and enthusiasm-Westminster's new students can adjust to high school life with ease. Through tremendous participation in such activities as United Crusade Week, Piccadilly Fair, car washes, and dances, the Freshman Class demonstrated that they were more than able to meet the expanded responsibilities of a high school schedule. Under the careful direction of class advisor Ms. Cheryl Hillis, president Abel Ceballos, vice president Sandy Freislinger, secretary Laurie Hernandez, treasurer Carol Fisher, and I.C.C. representative Terry Sianez directed Freshman activities with great ease and success.



The Freshman Class officers and students discuss what project they should work on next to raise money for the Freshman Class treasury.

Homecoming Queen- Christine Navarro

One of the most highly anticipated traditions at Westminster High School is the annual crowning of the Homecoming Queen. Perhaps more than any other school event, the selection of the Homecoming Queen and her court motivates excitement on campus. Through such activities as the decoration of Buckingham Square and the wearing of costumes by House of Lords members, the glamor of the Homecoming Queen's crowning is complemented. The girl selected for the 1976 honor was Christine Navarro.

Christine has been an outstanding member of the Westminster High student body. She has served as senior class vice-president and as Varsity Song Girl, to name just a few of the activities in which she has participated.

Christmas King 1976: Doug Boswell

Westminster High School has always striven to give its students an equal chance to explore and expand their personality. Students who make the most of the opportunities offered are often the recipients of high honors.

Doug Boswell has participated in a number of school events, but he is best known for his vigorous involvement with Westminster High School's athletic department. He has greatly aided the football, wrestling, and track teams. Doug also participated in several senior activities; one of his most important accomplishments, however, was being crowned Christmas King at the 1976 Christmas Formal held at Lion Country Safari.

Coronation Queen 1976 - Connie Huseth

At Westminster High one can find some sports-related activity in progress at all times of the year. The crowning of the Coronation Queen is a celebration of the basketball season in the best tradition of these sports-oriented festivities: This year, as in past years, the crowning and following reception meant a great deal to all involved.

The court consisted of Leslie Compton, Brynette Ramil, Pam Salka, and Cheryl Wong. The queen was Connie Huseth who was a member of the WHS Girls' Varsity Tennis team. Connie considered being crowned Coronation Queen one of the outstanding events of her high school years.

Gayle was a very hardworking member of the Senior Class, always ready to lend a helping hand. Her plans for the future include attending Stanford University where she will pursue her career in the field of Political Science.

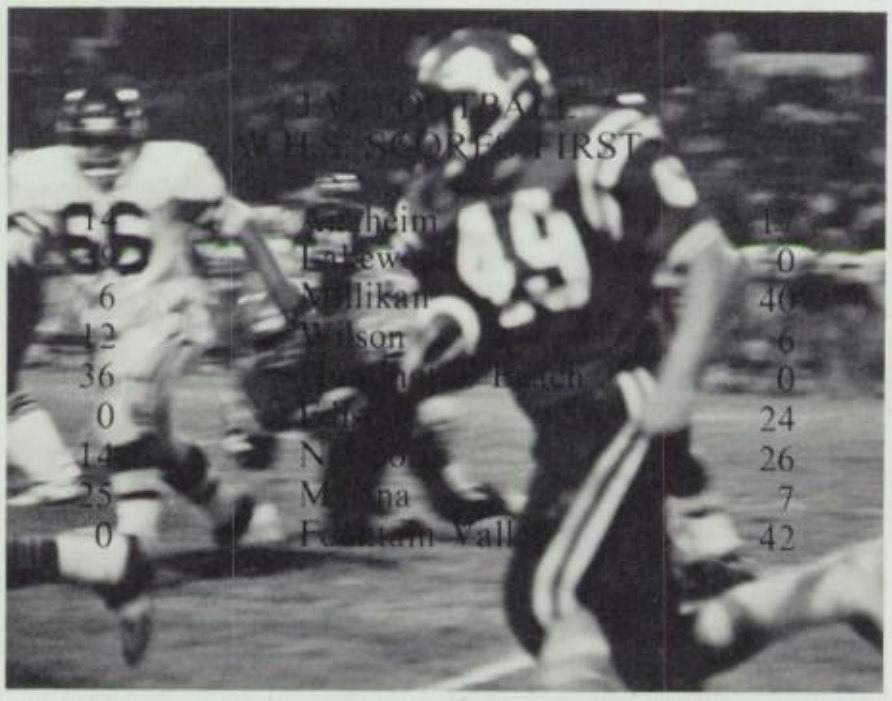
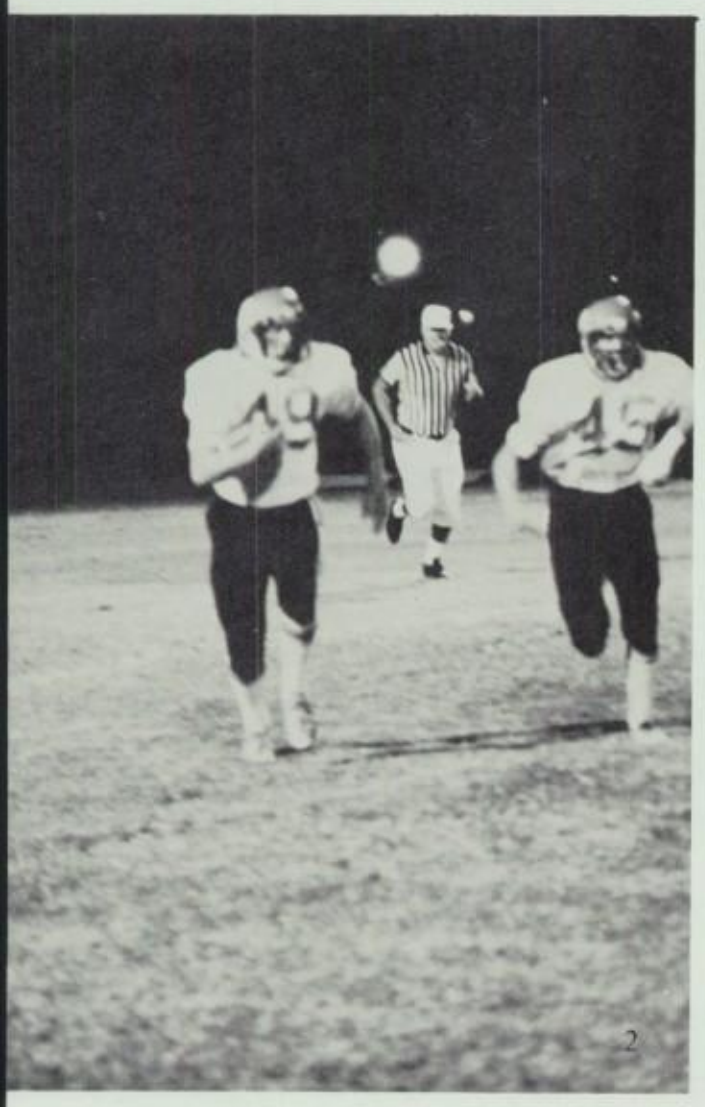
On September 16, the Lion's Varsity football team journeyed to La Palma Stadium to begin their trek to the C.I.F. playoffs. The Lions virtually dominated the Anaheim Colonists, even though the game ended with a 7-7 tie. Quarterback Mike Sodders played extremely well. His 47 yard bomb to Dave Jacinto gave the team their only touchdown.

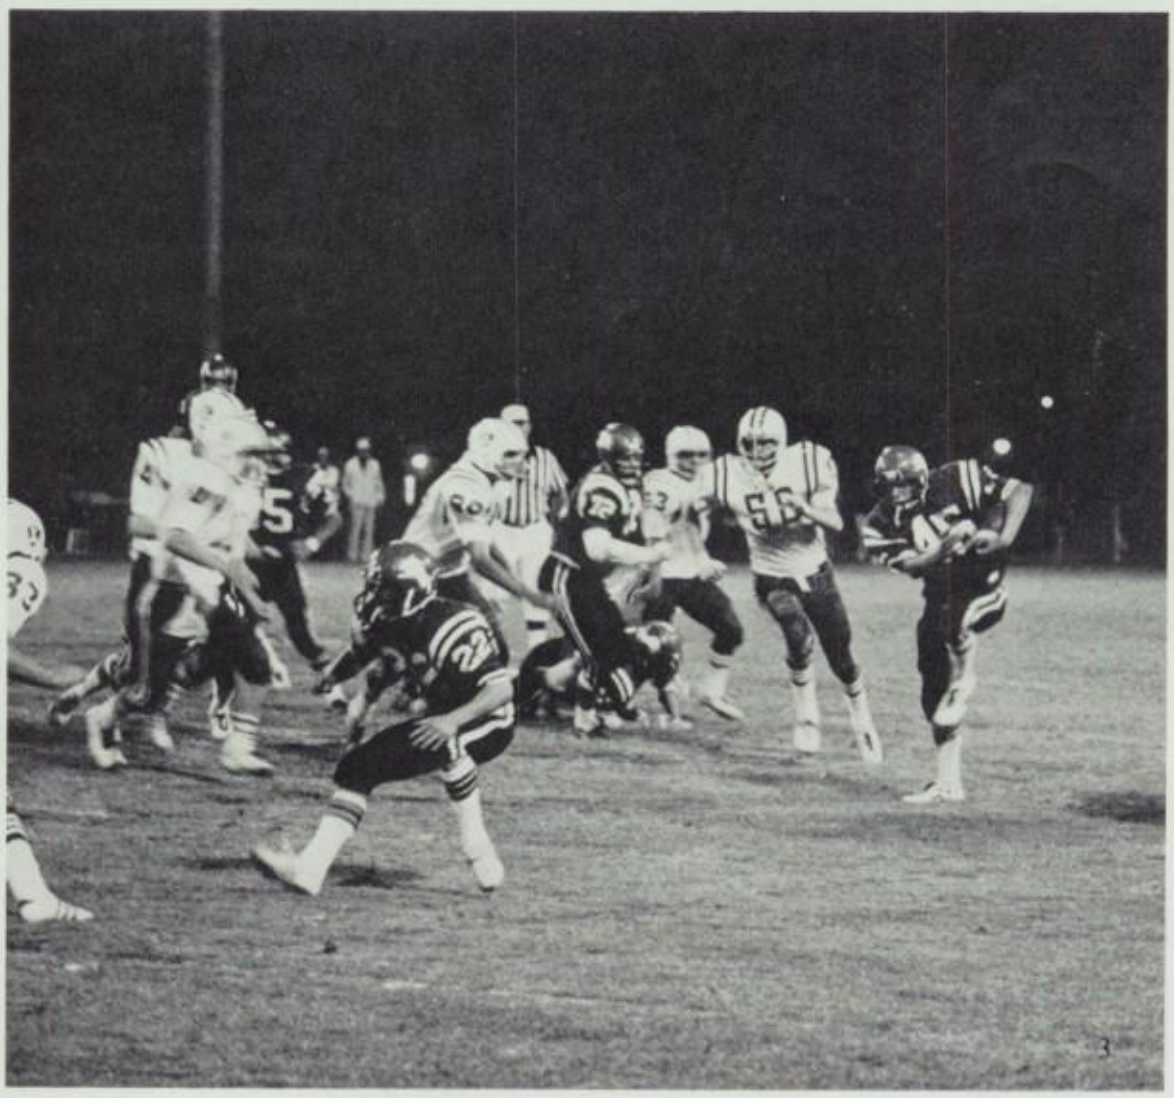
Following the tie against Anaheim, the team returned to the Lion's Den to open the home season against the tough Lakewood Lancers. For the second consecutive year, the Lions manhandled Lakewood in a 17-7 victory. Terry Lairson, one of the finest placekickers in the schools history, broke the school record with a 44-yard field goal. Behind the passing arm of Mike Sodders, and the running of half-back Doug Boswell, the game was again controlled by a powerful Lion team, pushing their season record to 1-0-1.

. . . It's How You Play the Game."

With only two games of pre-season play left and most of their problems ironed out, the Lions traveled to Long Beach Millikan. Again, a fired up Westminster team exploded for a 58 yard run by Duane Gerardi on the first play of scrimmage. With one of the most well-qualified teams ever, it appeared that once again the Lions would dominate the game. Unfortunately, Long Beach handed a costly loss to Westminster, 32-15, and forced WHS to end the season without Quarterback Mike Sodders who suffered a separated shoulder.







Lions Fight Their Battles

Pre-Season Game: WHS vs. LBW

The dimensions of the Lion team were displayed before Long Beach Wilson at a packed Lion stadium. With Ron Crouch quarterbacking the team for the first time, it took team effort from both lines plus the running team of Duane Gerardi and Doug Boswell to carry the game for the excited crowd. Though Crouch was excellent in the clutch, it was the Lion's defense, namely Arnold Villareal, that blocked the extra point to give Westminster a 7-6 victory and a 2-1-1 record going into the season.

Season Opener: Lions Crush Oilers

Entering the first game of the season against the HB Oilers, Westminster's squad proved to be one of the most powerful teams in the league. Behind the strength of Duane Gerardi and Doug Boswell, the Lions crushed a weak Huntington Beach team, 24-6. The game was dominated by the fired up Lions, who had built a 17-0 lead by the half. Ron Crouch continued to improve his quarterback talents.

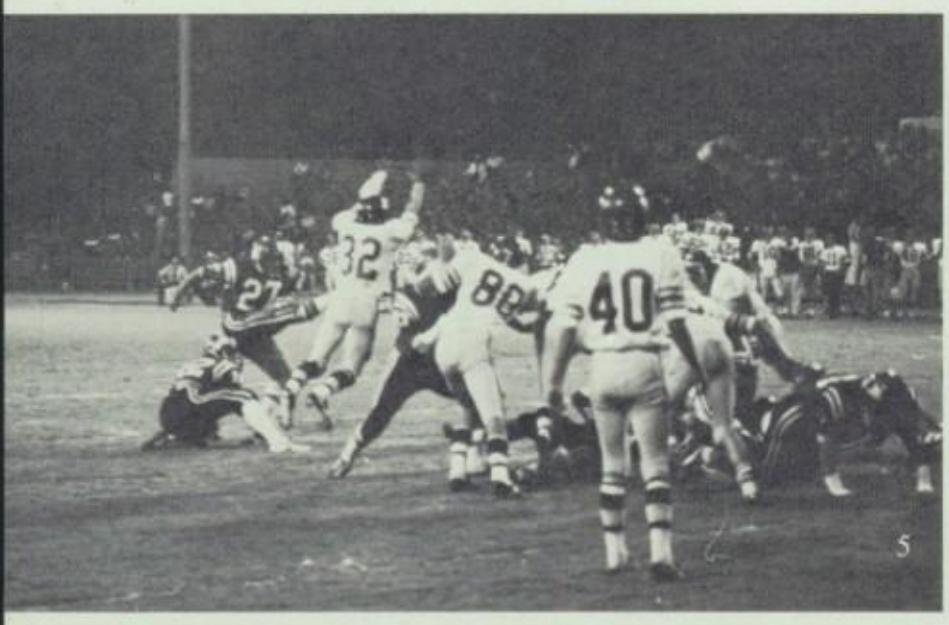
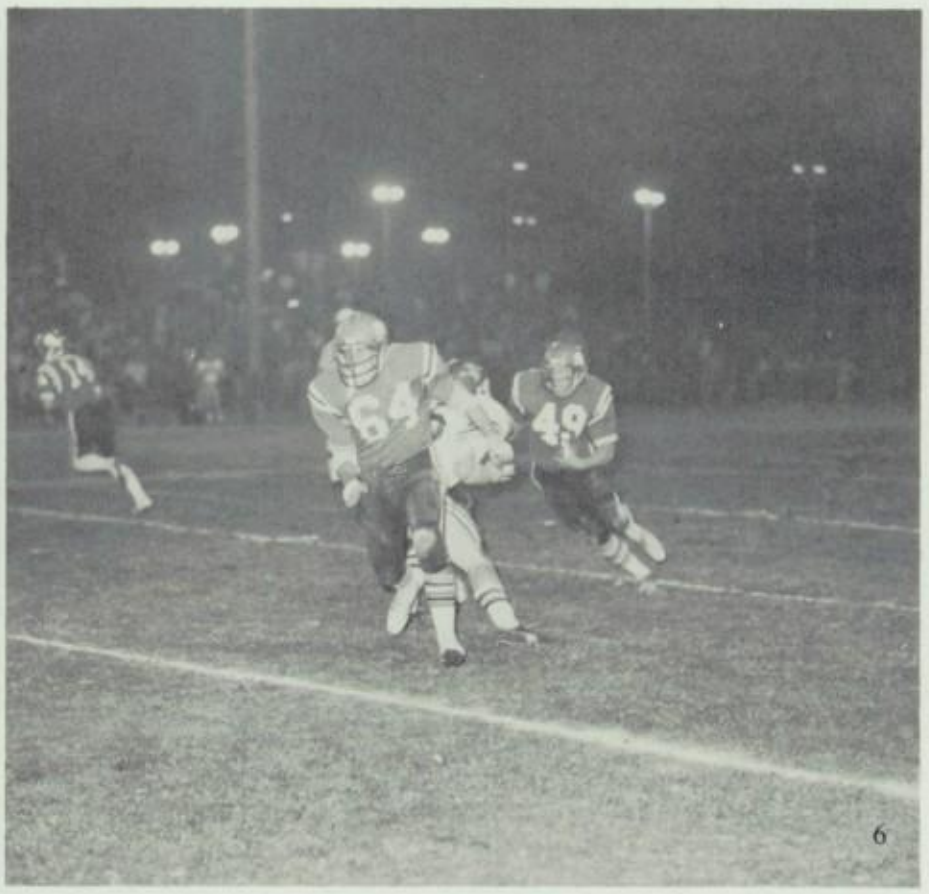
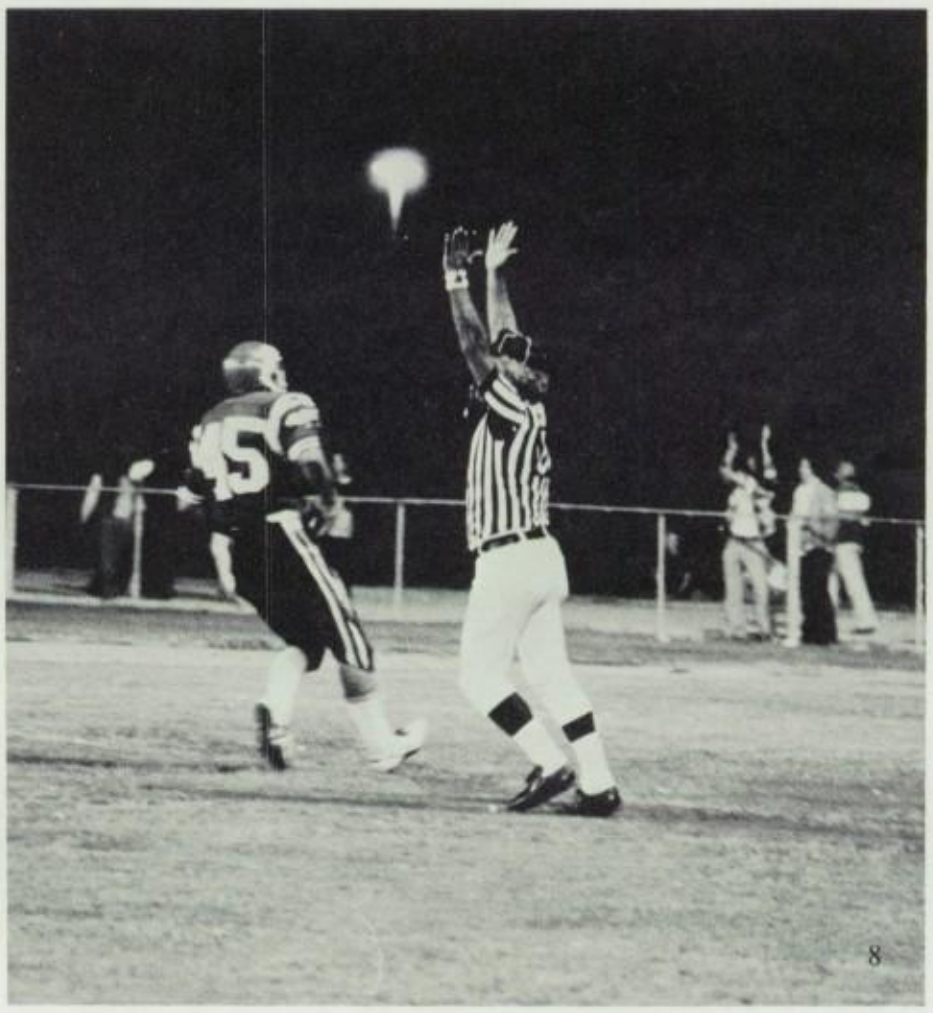
to the Bitter End







Lion Strength Put to Test by Edison

The Lions received a real test from the tough Edison Chargers. Both teams played excellent football, but Westminster wound up on the wrong end of the 21-13 score. The game was far closer then the final score indicated, as the Lions failed on a two-point conversion late in the game to fall behind 16-15. An on-side kick was attempted next, but Edison maintained possession of the ball and marched down the field for the final score.

WHS Sinks Sailors, 19-7

With a 1-1 league record, the Lions took on the Sailors at Newport Harbor in a must-win situation. The game was deadlocked 7-7 going into the final period, when Doug Boswell ran for two touchdown spurts. The defense put on an awesome display for Westminster as the Lions were again on the winning trail, 19-7. The next Lion game was Homecoming against Marina.

Homecoming and a Victory, 35-7

Before a full-house at the Lion's Den, Westminster totally embarrassed the Marina Vikings, 35-7. The highlight of the game came with a colorful 50-yard pass play from running back Rick Puig to Arnold Villareal. The Lions played precision football for 48 solid minutes in a game that appeared more like a scrimmage for W.H.S. With a 3-1 league record, the Lions next match was at O.C.C. against a highly ranked Fountain Valley team.

Onward to CIF Despite FV Loss, 14-10

The game really meant nothing, since both teams were assured a C.I.F. berth. Bearing equal records, this game was the meeting of two powerhouse teams. The Lion defense was superb and the offense exploded for nearly 300 total yards. Leading late in the game, 10-7, lightning struck Westminster again when the Barons scored a long pass play for a 14-10 win. Westminster ended league play with a third place finish and a 3-2 record.

The Lion's Varsity Basketball team scraped their way through a highly frustrating season. The team played far better than the final record of 0-10; but they ended up on the wrong end of several close scores, including two one-point losses to Marina: 48-49 and 66-67, and a close battle with Edison: 64-67. Mike Sodders and Tim Page both played consistently outstanding basketball during their senior years. The squad was crippled by many injuries throughout the year only to further the frustration. Under the guidance of a new coach. John Borchert, the Lion's took on a new style of basketball. Although the team was able to execute very well, luck just wasn't on their side this year.

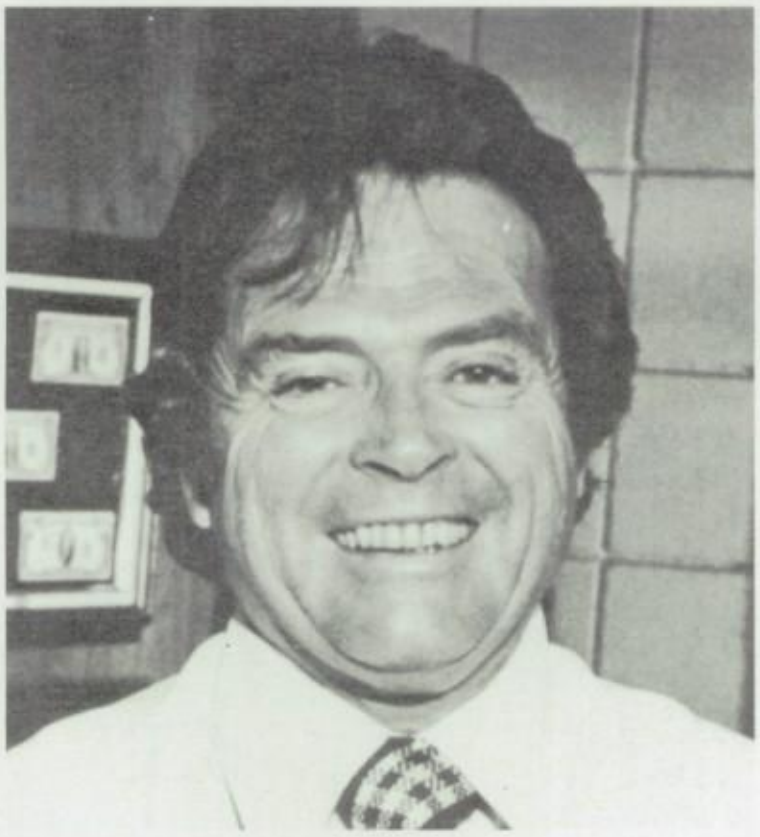
OFFICE

Throughout our entire lives, we accept each day naturally, without giving it much thought. Just as daybreak is taken for granted, so are the values of new experiences and new acquaintances; even new opportunities often go unappreciated. During the course of four years in a challenging, demanding high school environment, we must take time to view each encounter and each experience as a possible beginning. We must see a point of origin in the ordinary as well as in the unique. Nothing should be taken for granted. We should ANTICIPATE opportunity and value in each new acquaintance and occurrence.



BOB HEUSSER

DEALER

The United States Supreme Court once ruled that "GOOD WILL IS THE DESIRE OF THE CUSTOMER TO RETURN TO WHERE HE HAS BEEN WELL TREATED." If you think about that for a moment, it makes an awful lot of sense. It closely parallels the thought we have at Sunset Ford——"Doing business in the good old–fashioned way."

Danny-
Hope to see you

Connie

The main interest of the CITADEL is to capture the events that highlighted the school year, and made it memorable for all. Hopefully, this is what the staff has accomplished. Their time and efforts were greatly needed, so my thanks go to them all, for the small or large amounts of work they contributed. And a special thank you goes to June Nakanishi, who although was not a staff member, helped out a great deal. Special Thanks go to Todd Markel for the cover photo and to Leslie Cye for theme page photo.

There are two people I feel are due congratulations as well as thanks: Stacey Kanda, for having the patience to tackle what I feel is one of the toughest yearbook jobs; and to Ms. Chris Rice, for doing a great job as a first year advisor, and for learning to tolerate the likes of a yearbook staff.

As for me, having the opportunity to be Editor-in-Chief has been more than interesting and challenging. I feel I have learned a great deal of things that will help me in the future, both about people, and more important, organization. I will always remember the good and bad times of yearbook production over the past four years. Without them, I know I would have missed an important facet of high school life.

Terri Acosta
Editor.

Danny,

Hello so whats new? do how are you? Oh man. I fell really down and I don't no why. Well I think I do. And I think you no too. Thanks for always being there when I needed you, because sometimes it was hard for me to handel it by my self. Even though the guys from Wed. Don't like me because of Jr. well I guess thats just to bad because I don't care what they say. If me and Jr do break up its not going to be because of West. I really like him alot but I don't want to be so serious because then its going to hurt? If you no what I mean. Remibes what we were talking about the other day about me leaving, out of Jr's house so he wouldn't fill guilty well I should have just walked out of the house. But I couldn't. Remembes that time that we went to that Quincenera that Gina was in. And you were buying me Screwdrives after Screwdrives. I'll never forget that Day or night Remembes (Doo Doo Doo De Dood) That was a fun Quincenera. Remember when we went to Ensenada for the 4th of July weekend? That was pretty fun "E", and you were cold for throwing Debbie, and Debbra in the water. Remembes how sore you were when you ~~fell~~ & Jr went horseback riding. ~~Other~~ well I don't no about life anymore sometimes I can be so happy and sometimes I can feel so sad. Why do I always have (134)

I'd a real nice guy it was nice knowing you stay out of trouble take care! Good luck!

~~[illegible]~~ (FOR me).

Danny,

I don't care if you saved this for someone else, I'm more important, Eh? I'm not going to write the usual (you) a "sweet, nice person" because that doesn't concern you. And thank goodness we didn't get to know each other that well or I probably wouldn't of signed this. (not really) I'll stop being so mean & start writing some nice things

Well there went that according to Pat you're really sweet, so I'll have to take her word for it. (just kidding) You're really a sweetheart & I'm glad we're friends. I know you're really going to burn me when you sign mine, but that's life! Take care & I hope I'll see you over the summer. Good luck.

Love (don't take it serious)
